

My name is Christopher Moore and I am seeking a position on City Council. I've been part of this community for the 38 years of my life. My wife Lianne and our two girls Finnley (age 3) and Hazel (age 1) have lived in the historic district of Clarkston for the past 11 years. This is our home and we love the community.

I went to the Clarkston Community Schools and graduated 9th in my class with preadmission into MSUCOM medical school on an accelerated track to become a doctor. I moved back to Clarkston near the end of medical school to complete my medical training at Ascension Genesys hospital.

While training at the hospital I met my wife Lianne and we fell deeply in love. We both feel that Clarkston is an ideal place to raise a family. We absolutely love our small village and love supporting our community as we are both emergency physicians. And now I feel it's my time to care for my community in a different way as a City Council member.

I have an extensive background in hospital administrative work. I was assistant medical director for the emergency department for 2.5 years. In this role I provided quality assurance and quality improvement processes to improve patient safety and patient care throughout the entire hospital. After that I decided to give back to the medical education process. I became director of undergraduate medical education and oversee all medical student activities and education in our hospital. This is one of my current roles where I oversee policies and provide guidance and leadership for future physicians. I also serve as core faculty for the emergency residency program training and educating physicians. I've had several other leadership roles including director of medical simulation lab and director of emergency ultrasound.

Several years ago, I developed a physician leadership development program. I'm director of this program and train medical students and resident physicians in executive leadership management skills, perform behavioral and emotional intelligence assessments, and conflict management skills.

I would love to have the opportunity to help my community in a different way as a city council member. My wife and I absolutely love our community and the small-town charm of the Historic District of Clarkston. I would truly appreciate if you voted for me, Christopher Moore, for City Council.
